SUMMARY & PURPOSE

What is Madeline Multi-Wear (MMW)

A CIRCULAR FASHION SHOWROOM – HYBRID PHYSICAL AND DIGITAL – BUILT AROUND VERSATILE, MULTI-WEAR GARMENTS.

The Purpose

REDUCE TEXTILE WASTE AND SHIFT CONSUMERS FROM A LINEAR TO A CIRCULAR FASHION MODEL THROUGH EDUCATION AND DESIGN.

Goals:

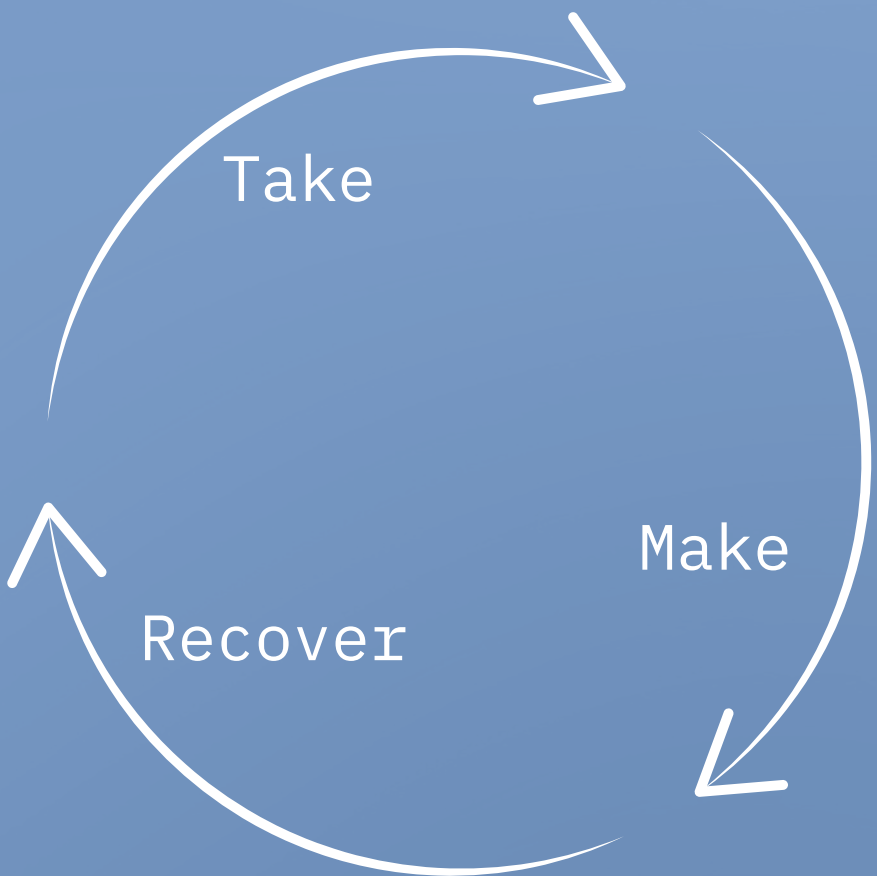

Short-term

LAUNCH A SMALL CAPSULE WARDROBE WITH INTEGRATED REPAIR AND RESALE SERVICES

Long-term

MMW AIMS TO EXPAND ITS CIRCULAR MODEL OF VERSATILE GARMENTS TO OTHER BRANDS, BECOMING AN ACCESSIBLE LEADER IN CIRCULAR FASHION.

MMW SHOWROOM

1. Multi-Wear Garements

MMW garments are transformable; for example, consumers can purchase a jacket with removable sleeves that can be worn either as a full winter jacket or as a vest, giving one garment two functions.

2. Repair & Resale Services

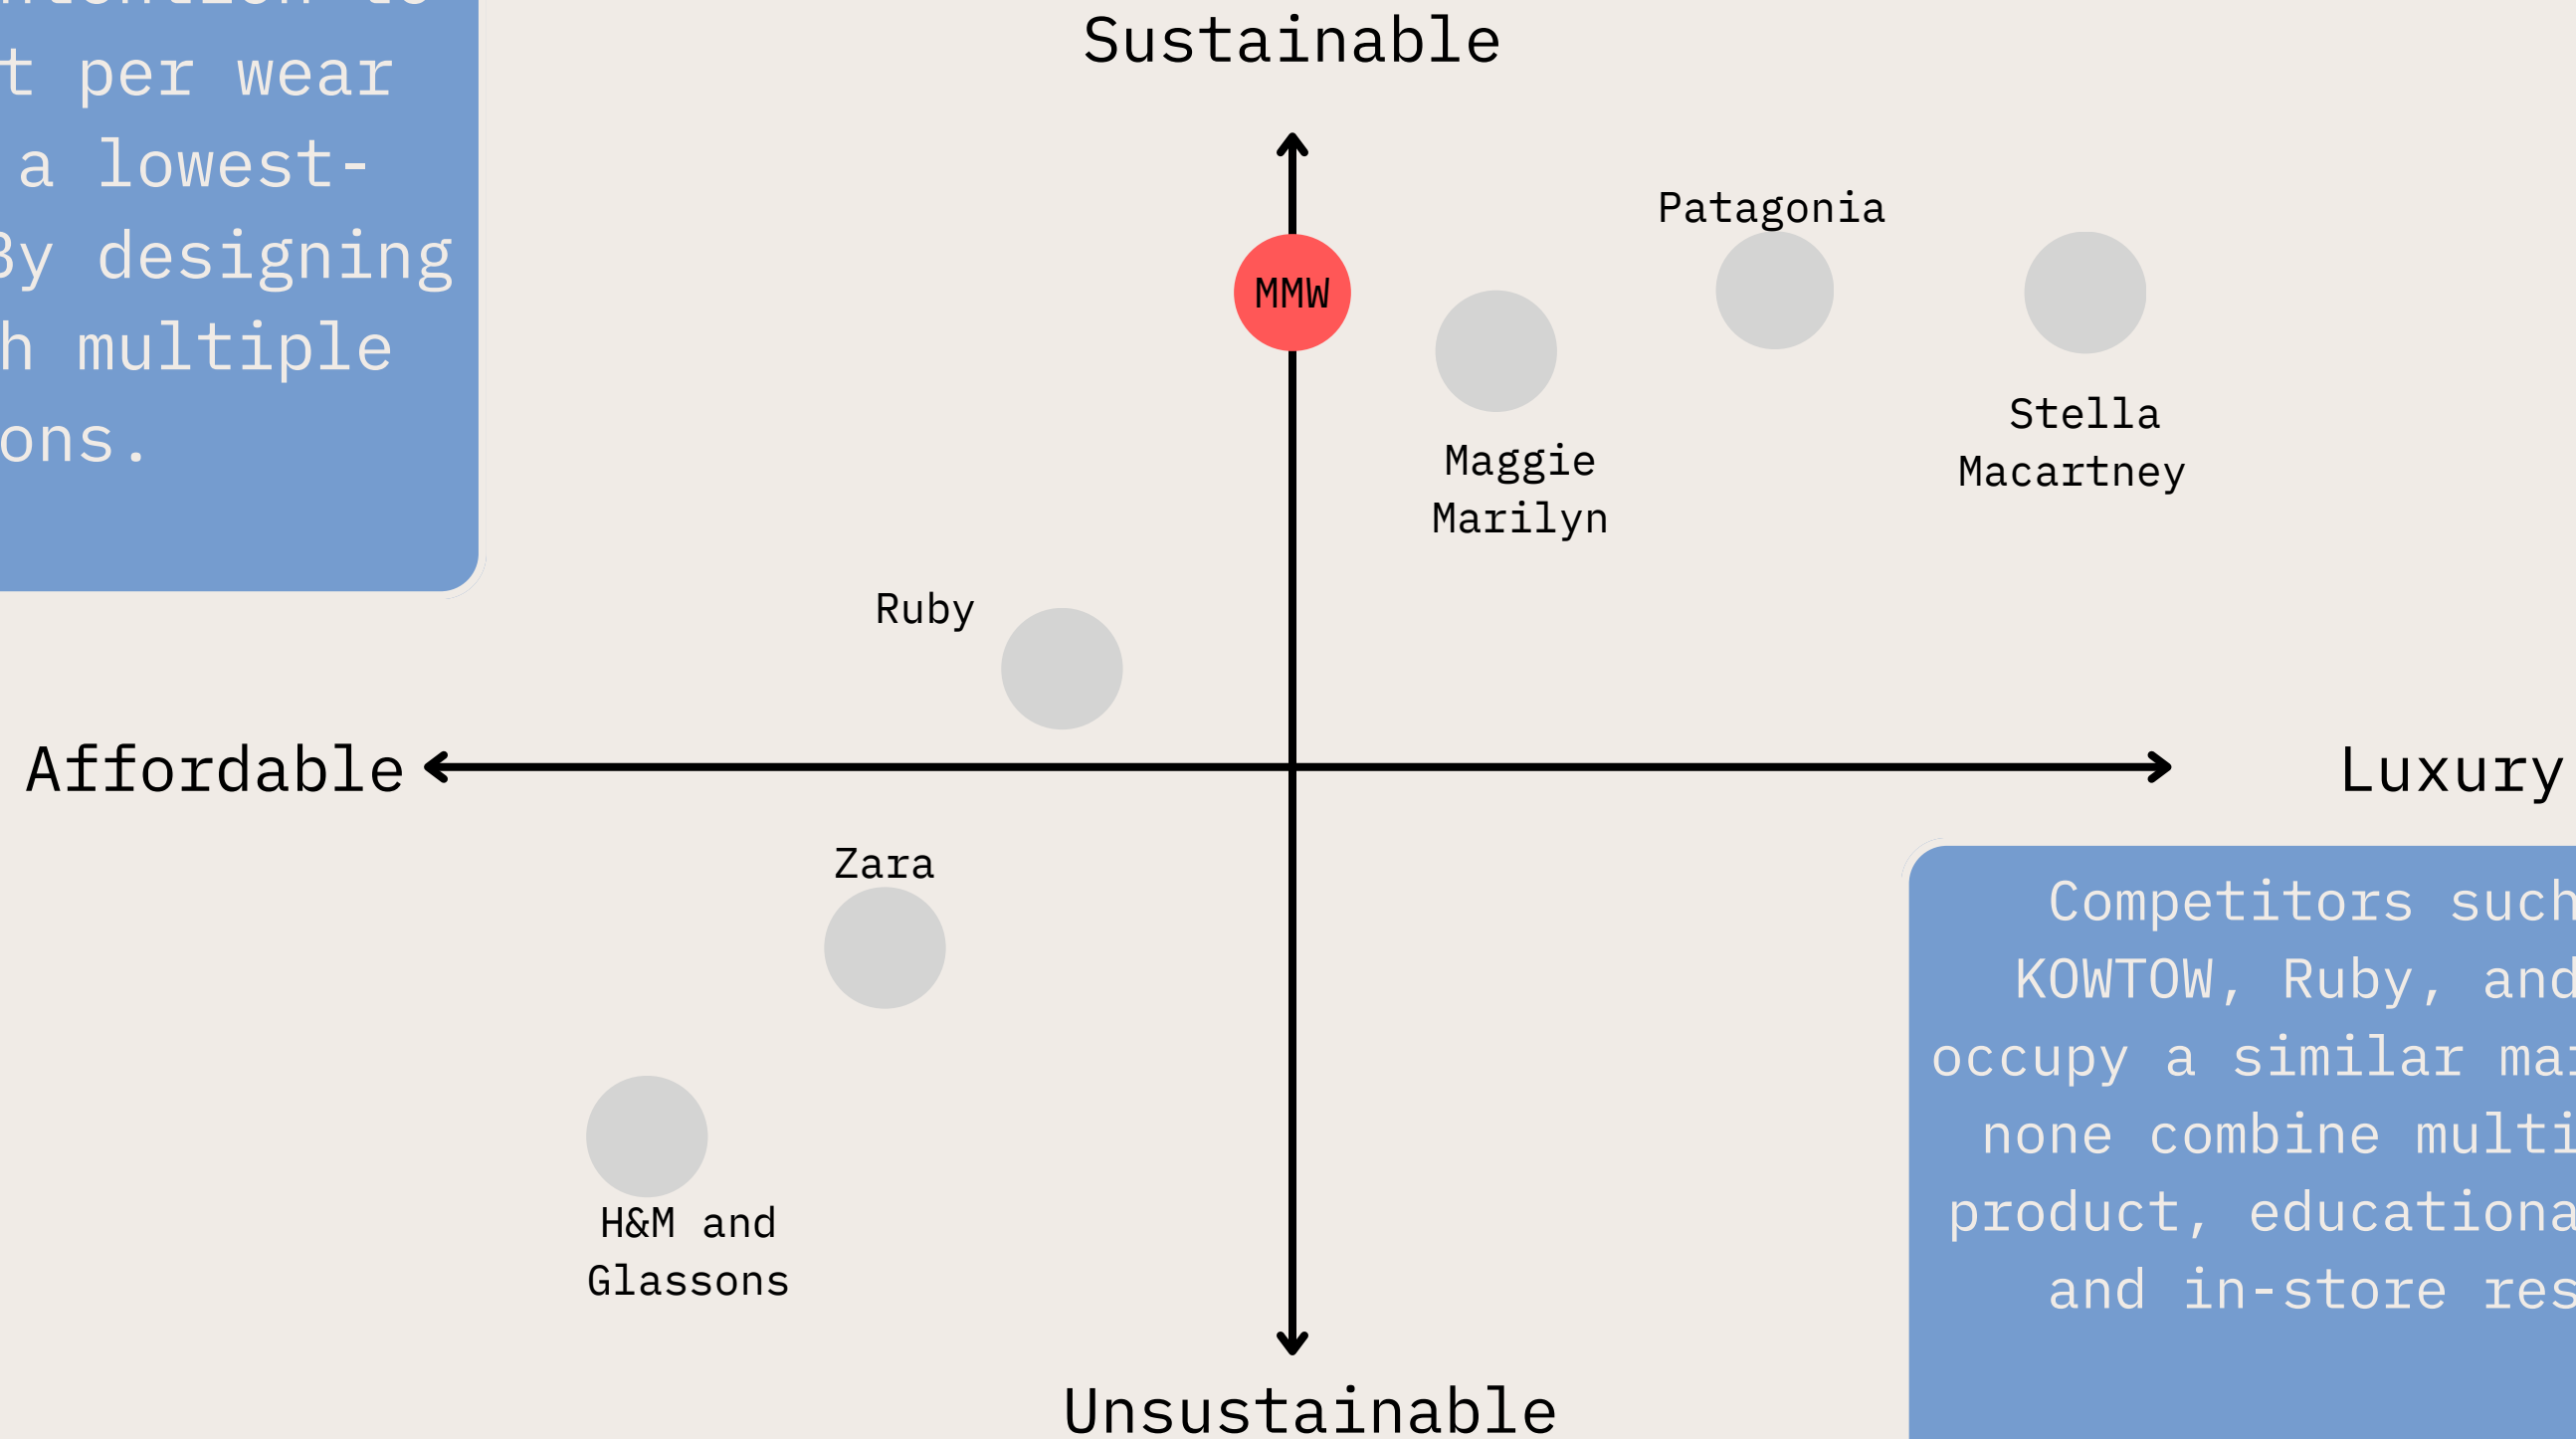

MMW garments are transformable; for example, consumers can purchase a jacket with removable sleeves that can be worn either as a full winter jacket or as a vest, giving one garment two functions.

3. Educational Show Room

MMW garments are transformable; for example, consumers can purchase a jacket with removable sleeves that can be worn either as a full winter jacket or as a vest, giving one garment two functions.

MARKETING POSITIONING

MMW's pricing strategy reflects an intention to focus on cost per wear rather than a lowest-price model. By designing products with multiple functions.

Competitors such as Patagonia, KOWTOW, Ruby, and Maggie Marilyn occupy a similar market position, but none combine multi-wear design per product, educational retail service, and in-store resale services.

THANK YOU

In conclusion, dependence on a linear fashion model is no longer sustainable, either environmentally or from a business perspective. Madeline Multi-Wear directly responds to this challenge by offering a circular model, specifically designed for Gen Z consumers, while also educating other brands about the multi-wear movement. Establishing a new way of designing and educating within the fashion industry.
